

A group of five students and one teacher are seated around a large, white-clothed oval table in a dining hall. They are all eating from plates of food, which appears to be a traditional Chinese meal. There are several glasses of orange juice on the table. The students are dressed in dark blue school uniforms. The teacher, a woman with short dark hair, is seated on the left side of the frame, looking towards the students. The background shows a large window with red curtains and a white wall.

